Speridian Technologies Pvt. Ltd. Awarded ISO 9001:2008 Certification

World's most widely used quality management system standards assures highest level of customer satisfaction and regulatory compliance while reducing environmental impact

February 05, 2010, Speridian Technologies Pvt. Ltd., a leader in delivering Customer Relationship Management (CRM) systems and enterprise-wide technology solutions, is proud to announce that it has been awarded the ISO 9001:2008 certification in February 2010 for internal process Quality Management by the British Standards Institute (BSI). ISO 9001 is by far the world's most established quality framework, currently being used by 897,000 organizations in 170 countries worldwide, and sets the standard not only for quality management systems, but management systems in general.

Speridian chose to implement ISO 9001:2008 as part of its ongoing drive to streamline operations and maximize overall organizational performance. Speridian applies this framework to address the balance between maintaining profitability and assuring that customers and employees alike enjoy the most satisfying working relationship--all while reducing environmental impact. Adoption of the ISO 9001:2008 framework assures that management processes and each step of software design and development are tightly controlled and consistently applied.

"After months of preparation and in-depth internal audits, by achieving ISO 9001:2008 Certification, Speridian Technologies Pvt. Ltd. once again demonstrates our on-going commitment to providing the highest level of customer satisfaction through continual improvement to our business performance."
